

PROTECTING COMMUNITIES IS YOUR JOB. KEEPING BIRDS IN THE AIR IS OURS.

Whatever mission you undertake, operational readiness is the key.

Summit Aviation offers a solution that helps you be mission-ready while minimizing your costs at the same time. We provide a dedicated, on-site and experienced A&P mechanic that supports you at your location, so you can spend your time flying versus waiting for your aircraft to be ready and returned.

Summit has a proven track record for supplying this type of service and there are many advantages to having an on-site mechanic versus outsourcing. They include:

- Increased operational efficiency
- Reduced downtime
- Enhanced safety
- 24/7 support services
- Dedicated on-site support personnel
- Technical advice/guidance
- Cost savings

Explore the savings and the efficiency that an on-site mechanic can bring to your organization. Contact Denny Hurst (dhurst@summit-aviation.com) or Ken Pike (kpik@summit-aviation.com) at Summit Aviation to discuss what they can do for you.
